THE TRANSACTIONS ON NETWORKING is the fruit of countless hours of volunteer work by reviewers, editors, and others. On behalf of authors, readers, and the sponsoring societies, I would like to publicly thank these volunteers. The success of their efforts is reflected in the very high quality of papers published in this journal.

I would like to recognize those who have volunteered their time and technical expertise to write one or more reviews for the journal during 1995. A list of reviewers is printed below. These individuals played an important role in shaping the journal’s content as well as improving the quality of published papers. Should you be called upon to review a manuscript in the future, I hope that you will not hesitate to join this volunteer effort.

Let me take this opportunity to also recognize those who have served on the editorial board and steering committee of the TRANSACTIONS ON NETWORKING. The current members of the editorial board and steering committee are listed on the inside front cover. In particular, I thank the following editors who stepped down from the board during the past year: Don Towsley, David Sincoskie, Mart Molle, and Stephen Kille, and extend a belated welcome to the following editors who joined the board during the past year: Udaya Shankar, Craig Partridge, Magda El Zarki, H. T. Kung, San-Qi Li, Charles Perkins, Galen Sasaki, and Jean Bolot. I am delighted to report that Jim Kurose, the founding Editor-in-Chief, remains on the editorial board to work on special projects (including electronic publishing). Biographical sketches of editors can be found on the journal’s www page, http://dworkin.wustl.edu/~ton/.

The steering committee also had a few changes during the past year. Russell Harris and Hal Berghal replaced Carol Meyer and Craig Partridge as ACM representatives, and Harvey Freeman replaced Barry Johnson as a Computer Society representative. Russell Harris was elected steering committee treasurer (taking over from Ray Miller), and Nick Maxemchuk was elected steering committee chair (taking over from Lyman Chapin). The steering committee is a proactive hardworking group of volunteers. Recognition of their important contribution to the success of the TRANSACTIONS ON NETWORKING is due.
